

CO2 Lunacy and the Opposition

The TV news revealed that scientists have planted eucalyptus trees enclosed in clear plastic tents.

Then 600 parts per million of CO2 is pumped into the tent.

They have discovered that the trees grow much faster and use 20% less water.

Enclosed nurseries have been doing this for years producing superior products too, at less cost.

But Climate Czar Nostradamus Garnaut and the Global Warming Religion Advocate Prime Minister Rudd are organising that CO2 be captured and buried. This will increase the cost of power by 60% and dramatically increase the cost of every product that depends upon power for production.

And Turnbull the Leader of the Opposition agrees with them.

So far, only Senator Ron Boswell has launched any political opposition to this lunacy. Surely there are some other sane people in the Federal Parliament.
