

Per the below article:

This fellow Greg Hunt is a traitorous pest and Abbott should have the spine to hold his position. He was on a winner.

The fact that any person can say 'the science is settled' is a fantastic double deception. The first is that the person cannot utilise english in a logical manner and the second is that the person has no knowledge of how Western Civilisation arrived at, and exercise scientific logic. The know it all clown, Hunt, would do well to read Karl Popper's excellent treatise "The Logic of Scientific Discovery".

1. CO2 generated by man is a tiny fraction of the carbon dioxide released to the atmosphere each year, compared with volcanoes on land and under the oceans.

Hunt's statements indicate the abysmal ignorance of many politicians over this dying issue.

2. Astrophysicist and Profession Climate Forecaster, Piers Corbyn recently stated, that CO2 has nothing to do with the climate, and that the planet is more likely in the future to go into another ice age, due to the cyclical inactivity of the sun.

3. Any person whom finds the greenhouse gas theory attractive should consider this. If this theory was indeed a law then there would be marvels of engineering made of mirrors and glass where the inside temperature is greater than the outside temperature thereby generating a perpetual source of energy. Free energy. Of course no such marvel exists because the greenhouse gas theory violates the first law of thermodynamics.

It is frightening that people like Gillard, Combet, Hunt, Oakeshott, Windsor and Milne will be deciding on the future of Australian Industry and all related commercial activity.

Unless the opposition decides to inform themselves and be decisive on the removal of the GW\CC debacle the government may well have their way.

Remember Christine on the 7.30 Report? ".....we want to see a carbon price as quickly as possible because we want transformation of the whole economy and society." Transformation in whose image?
