

Sensible Advice to Canberra Politicians

23rd August 2010

To the Letters Editor

Sensible advice to Tony Abbott, Tony Windsor, Rob Oakeshot and Bob Katter.

- * The fact is, man made carbon dioxide has nothing whatsoever to do with the planet's climate. Forget it.
- * A proposed tax on mining companies so called "super profits", has already cost exploration and mining in Australia projects and jobs. Forget it.
- * The bans placed on water supplies on the Murray/Darling and everywhere else is costing the Nation dearly in production and jobs and the preservation of farming and entrepreneurial skills. Cancel the lunatic green activity.
- * The Green ban on fishing and oil and gas exploration in the Coral Sea and every where else is a destructive anti-industrial activity costing production and many jobs. Open all prospective land and sea for oil and gas exploration.
- * There are several uranium mines ready to go into immediate production. Twenty odd billion dollars worth of production ready to go, at the present price of $40 per pound. Simply declare uranium exploration and mining as legitimate an activity any other mineral or metal.

The way to counter all of the above green based activity is to declare a tax free, free trade zone north of the 26th parallel right across the continent.

New ports new rail lines and roads, new exploration activities, would empty the cities and rapidly take advantage of the massive fresh water opportunities that exist. And it would put into production the four fifths of Australia's arable land now lying idle.

If we do not do it other Asians will.
